

Just a Little of This & That By W. E. W.

Determination
Up at my house it's sort of an unwritten law that Sunday is Mother's Day, that every Sunday in the year belongs to her and what she wants to do the rest of us do it whether we want to or not. Now it may appear simple to get every member of a household in the same frame of mind on a Sunday, but training is getting a result.

Often we just stay at home; other times we climb mountain peaks, while still others we go down to the beach and listen to the ocean and take a dip in the briny. But on the program of late seems to be an annual trip to the desert. Just why a trip to the desert should be anyone's outdoor sport is not for Yours Truly to solve, but when we make that trip we always go round by E. H. Richardson's Adelanto on the return trip from Victorville, and every time I pass that way I can't help but admire the determination of that man Richardson. Adelanto seems to exist and develop because Earl Richardson, as he is familiarly known among his many friends, thoroughly believed that it could be done. He bought some land, developed some water and today there evidently exists a colony of happy and prosperous people. With the coming of the people greater development is going on and it's all the result of one man believing that certain things could be done and going at them to do them against whatever difficulties might arise.

Adelanto is simply an example of determination; of believing from the ground up in an idea and of working persistently and consistently to do a thing and do it thoroughly and well.

May Adelanto grow and may those who are developing those orchards there enjoy good health and prosper financially—that's our wish for them because they are doing a pioneer work, and in order for any section to be developed someone must first do the pioneering.

June Brides

This is the month of lovely June brides, and not having seen a June bride for a long, long time, I really didn't know how lovely they were until the other night when our own "Kelly" Poole became the husband of Miss Christine Evans. I say our own "Kelly" Poole because he belongs to The News force and we work with him every day in the week. We know him and he knows us. As I listened to Dr. R. C. Stone pronounce the words that gave the lovely June Bride to our co-worker to have and to hold, it occurred to me that if we mortals could so live—if we would just strive to treat one another just the best we knew how, every day could be just as happy an event as that wedding.

Far be it from me to state that you could ever get this idea into the systems of a lot of men and women that I have met, but if each member of a household would adopt that idea toward others occupying the same home, in due season the plan would spread and might even spread to such an extent that some of those men and women that I have met might get up in the morning without a yawn and go to their work spreading just a ray or two of sunshine for their neighbors to enjoy.

Conservation

Old Man Trouble busted into this sanctum with the morning mail. Recently there appeared in this column a description of the business man who, after twenty years' absence from his old home town, went back. That article told of his disappointment in the town and the people and how his trip, already partly spoiled, was ruined completely when he went to visit an old sweetheart and found her fat, forty and sloppily, and the wife of a dried-up husband with a squeaky voice.

This letter comes from near where I used to live about twenty years ago, and it says: "If you were thinking of me when you wrote that dope about the man who went back home and found his boyhood sweetheart 'fat, forty and sloppily, with a mouthful of loose teeth and the wife of a dried-up husband with a squeaky voice, I just want to tell you that though I may be in the forties I haven't experienced the sunshine of your California, when it comes to looks I'll bet I've got a backed up the map and I'll

HUBBELL RESIGNS AS VETERINARY OF COUNTY

ROAD SUPERVISOR AND WARDEN ARE NAMED

Dr. Hubbell, Who Has Served
County for Several Years,
Desires Services to Terminate on July First

In a brief letter to the Board of Supervisors, Dr. A. D. Hubbell, county livestock inspector, yesterday announced his resignation, effective July first.

Dr. Hubbell, who has served as veterinarian and livestock inspector for several years, including during the foot and mouth epidemic of 1924, gave no reason for resigning, merely stating that his services would terminate on July 1. Dr. Hubbell's resignation was accepted by the supervisors without comment.

A successor to Dr. Hubbell as veterinarian and livestock inspector will probably be appointed next Monday by the supervisors, although no discussion of appointees came before the board yesterday.

The supervisors revoked the appointment of W. V. Covington as road commissioner in the Morongo district and appointed George R. Hicks of Banning as commissioner. Mr. Hicks will have charge of the district formerly assigned to Mr. Covington.

George H. Dunn of Yucaipa was named county fire warden in the Yucaipa district. He will co-operate with rangers and forestry department officials, but his work will primarily be outside of the forest boundaries in the foothills surrounding the Yucaipa Valley.

RUSTY REVOLVER INJURES YOUTH

What was at first believed to have been the attempted suicide of a 14-year-old boy provided on investigation by the Upland police to have been merely the ineffectual effort of Carmen Ramirez, Cucamonga youth, to discharge a rusty old revolver of small calibre.

Young Ramirez was found seated on a rock at the side of an orange grove at Tenth St. and Cucamonga avenue by Jas. McCormickdale, Jr. The lad was suffering from a wound in the face near the left eye and was bleeding profusely. The gun lay at his side.

McCormickdale hailed a passing milk wagon, which took the boy to the office of Dr. W. H. Craig, where his wound was found to be of a superficial nature.

Ramirez explained to Chief of Police J. F. Sawyer that he had found the old gun and when it refused to discharge after loading, he had struck it with a hammer. The result was that the shell backfired and the bullet grazed his eye.

Camp Baldy Sunday School to Be Resumed

Community Sunday School at Camp Baldy has been maintained during the winter, and is to be organized for the summer. Services will be held in the open and are usually attended by many of the cottagers and tourists. Mr. Skeen has been the superintendent, and the school met last summer under the oaks at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Sanborn.

Rev. F. H. Mixsell of Palm Springs has been commissioned by the Presbytery of Riverside to hold services at Camp Baldy, and besides the Sunday School service an evening Christian Endeavor meeting and popular service will be held at the Camp Baldy Hotel from 7 to 8 o'clock. Choirs of Upland and Ontario churches will contribute their services.

Little Donald Rogers, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Rogers, was quite a sick little boy this week, but, much to the relief of his parents, is getting better. Donald drank some gasoline that his mother had in a bottle for cleaning purposes.

CHINESE STUDENTS WIN SCHOLARSHIPS

Among the scholarships awarded annually at Mills College to students in full and regular standing, in recognition of their exceptional capacity, character and academic rank, are two which will be of interest to Upland people. One is the Aurelia Harwood scholarship for Chinese students, which has been awarded to Jane Kwong of Canton, China, and the other the Catherine Harwood scholarship for Chinese students, won by Doris Suen of Canton, China.

The scholarship committee at Mills College includes Dr. Mary Roberts Coolidge, chairman; Dr. Hope Traylor and Dr. Kate Brousseau. Applications are made in writing before April first of each year, and the awards decided by the committee.

Miss Margaret Cushman of Ontario was awarded a Mills scholarship offered in honor of the founder of the college, Susan Telman Mills.

"RUSSIA" SHOULD NO LONGER BE USED

Advice has been received from the Leningrad office that the name "Russia" should no longer be used in the address of correspondence, as the new official name of that country is "Union of the Socialist Soviet Republics." The use of the initials "U.S.S.R." or other initials to indicate the name of the country should be avoided, in order to prevent confusion or the possible return to origin as undeliverable articles improperly addressed.

Glendora Man Is Under Arrest Here

Fred S. Albro of Glendora, age 50, appeared in Judge George R. Crane's court today for preliminary examination following his arrest on a charge of driving a motor car while intoxicated, and was held to appear before the Superior Court.

Deputy District Attorney Stanley Mussell represented the District Attorney's office. At his arraignment Albro's bail was fixed at $500 and in lieu of that amount he was held in the city jail.

Albro was arrested on West Twelfth street, which is a link of the Foothill boulevard, by Motor Officer Louis Krommeyer and Patrolman C. S. Lehman. Relatives of the man were here from Glendora yesterday afternoon, but were unable to put up the bail to secure his release.

PRIZES AWARDED MEXICAN PUPILS

An interesting program was held at the Catholic chapel in the Sierra Vista School District yesterday afternoon, when the teachers gave the children a party, this being the last meeting before the summer vacation.

This school has done some very fine work, not only along religious lines, but along general educational lines as well. Two years ago when Rev. Fr. Thomas Mathews of St. George's Church, Ontario, took over the school, there were just a few children, while yesterday eighty children attended the closing exercises.

In speaking to a News reporter Fr. Mathews said: "The classes meet twice a week and at every session we have had between 80 and 100 children. We not only try to teach the children their religion, but we also endeavor to make better citizens of them." Twenty-five children were given prizes for a perfect attendance.

Music was enjoyed by the children and late in the afternoon the following teachers served cream and cake to those assembled: Miss Catherine Salter, Superintendent of the School; Mrs. D. F. Waters, Mrs. J. Sweeney, Mrs. De F. Walton, Mrs. Chas. McCabe, Mrs. Dorsey Glover, Mrs. Fred McMullen, Mrs. Oscar Arnold and Miss Teresa McQuillen.

OUT OF THE MOUTHS—

Out of the mouths of babes and sucklings may be perfected definition as well as praise. For example, there is the case of the teacher who, at the close of the reading lesson, was questioning her class on the subject matter thereof. "What is an oyster?" she asked. "Please, miss," replied a bright boy of the class, "it's half a fish and half a nut."

POLICE OF SOUTH SEARCH FOR HIT AND RUN DRIVER

ONE KILLED WHEN CAR IS CROWDED FROM MOUNTAIN ROAD

Charles Clifford Grubbs Killed
When His Car Was Forced From Waterman Canyon
Road. Recommend Widening

While the story of the tragic death of Charles Clifford Grubbs, 18 years old, in Waterman Canyon Sunday, was being told a coroner's jury, officers yesterday were in the mountains in an attempt to identify the four occupants of a coupe—two youths and two girls—who "side-swiped" the car of Grubbs on the Waterman Canyon road early Sunday morning, catapulting the car over the grade, fatally injuring Grubbs. The joyriders, driving wildly down the canyon, continued on without stopping to aid the dying boy.

No tangible clues as to the identity of the wild motorists or their car had been obtained by the officers last night, it was admitted.

A verdict of accidental death was returned by the jury at an inquest conducted by Deputy Coroner Emmett Waters with a recommendation that the highway at the scene of the accident, 200 yards north of Vale's Ranch, be widened. The road, at this point, is but 15 feet wide.

At the inquest, Archie Heatherly and Harold West, who were riding with Grubbs when his car was hurled over the grade by the force of the impact with the joyriders' car, told their versions of the tragedy. They testified that they were driving slowly up the canyon and had reached the curve above the embankment, when the coupe dashed around the corner. Heatherly and West declared that the joyriders' car struck Grubbs' car, virtually knocking it over the grade into a creek bottom 20 feet below.

The youths told of rescuing Grubbs from beneath the car and of his dying moments. Mrs. Bishop, wife of the operator of Vale's Ranch, also testified. She was with Ben Martin in the automobile in which Grubbs died while en route to the Ramona Hospital.

Roy Argo, owner of the Panorama Garage, testified that a coupe carrying four occupants stopped at his place a few minutes before the accident occurred in the canyon below. He said one of the girls got out of the car, but he was unable to describe her, explaining that he saw her only in the moonlight and paid no particular attention to her appearance.

Officers were in the mountains during the day, searching for descriptions of parties traveling in a light coupe and who are believed to have spent the early hours of the night at a dance at a resort. So far, no clues are known.

Heatherly and West were unhurt in the accident.

H.I. ROSS, PIONEER ONTARIAN, DIES

Death this morning of Herbert Ross at his home, 715 N. Euclid avenue, at the age of 66 years, marked the passing of one of Ontario's most prominent and highly respected citizens.

A retired banker and lumberman, Mr. Ross came to Ontario 17 years ago and engaged in orange ranching until three years ago when he retired. Mr. Ross was a native of New York. He spent many years in Colorado and was a pioneer banker at Alamosa, Colo. Later he engaged in the mining business in Colorado, New York and Norway, after which he became prominently identified with the lumber business in Canada.

During his residence in Ontario, Mr. Ross took an active part in the civic welfare and progress of the city. During the late war he was particularly active in Liberty Loan and Red Cross campaign work. At the time of his death he was a director of the People's Mutual Building and Loan Association. He was for a number of years a director of and an active worker in the Ontario Chamber of Commerce. He was a lifelong member of the Presbyterian Church.

Mr. Ross is survived by his widow, one son, Welles T. Ross, and two grandchildren, Barbara and Sara Ann Ross, all of Ontario.

Funeral services are to be held at Draper's chapel Thursday morning at 10 o'clock. Interment will be in Bellevue cemetery.

OLD POSTOFFICE BLOG. IS LEASED

A lease was entered into yesterday by Fred L. Smith, lessee of J. W. Bridenbaugh for a period of ten years the building formerly occupied by the postoffice on Ninth street.

Just who Fred L. Smith represents no one knows here, but he is evidently connected with a chain of groceries and rumor has it that he will establish a meat market and grocery there. The lease goes into effect July 1st.

School Notes

Mrs. Alcock is planning to take a summer school course at the University of Southern California.

The 8th grade class enjoyed a picnic at Fairmount Park, Riverside, last week, despite the fact that it rained nearly all day. Luncheon was eaten at noon, and swimming, rowing and canoeing were indulged in, though many were disappointed on account of the rain. Miss Noe, Miss Griggs, Miss Randall, Miss Brown and J. H. Paulin went with the pupils on the trip.

Blue ribbons were awarded the winners at the Chaffey meet on Friday in assembly. Those carrying off the honors were Byron Cross, Jack Skidmore, Marion Cross, Darwin Brest, D. Campbell. Red ribbon winners were Jack Kermott, David Meek, Norris Bigley, Francis Wilson, Manley Rose, Junior Holliday, Leelen Kearney, Dean Benton, Henry Reese, Harry Jennings. White ribbon winners were Chester Eckman, Douglas Hartzog, Robert Briggs, Harry Griffith, Med Stokes.

Mr. and Mrs. Kaiser will spend their vacation at home, taking short trips to the beach and mountains.

Miss Chaney plans to spend the summer at the beach, and Miss Eleanor Schaepp is arranging to leave in a few days for Lake Tahoe, where she will spend the summer vacation.

Miss Lauretta Shinkel attended the Shriners' Ball at the Biltmore Hotel, Los Angeles, Friday night.

Mrs. Saylor and daughter expect to leave by steamer on Friday afternoon for San Francisco and Berkeley. Mrs. Saylor may teach in summer school.

Every ambitious young cabbage plant seems to want to grow up and become a box of cigars.

U.B.P.W.C. HOLDS ANNUAL ELECTION

Mrs. Clyde V. Calhoun was unanimously re-elected president of the Upland Business and Professional Women's Club at the annual election of officers held today at Crowell Hall. Others chosen to serve with her are Mrs. Bess K. Grisham, of the Upland post-office staff, vice president; Mrs. Robert B. Campbell, Commercial National Bank, recording secretary; Miss Dorothy Ruth, First National Bank, corresponding secretary; Miss Linda Schmidt, J. J. Atwood Company, treasurer; Miss Leola Lee, Empire Realty and Mortgage Company, auditor; Mrs. Alice Erixon, business manager; Mrs. R. C. Williams as assistant manager.

Reports on the Boy and Girl Scout Campaign in which members of the club took part were given, those helping with the canvass of the town being Mrs. Rosa Burwell, Mrs. Paul Petrow, Mrs. Sarah Redmon, Mrs. E. A. Cooley, Mrs. C. C. Nelson, Mrs. Mark Bailey.

Luncheon was served by the Ladies' Aid of the Methodist Church, a pretty color scheme of yellow and white being carried out in the flowers. Shasta daisies and Scotch bloom graced the tables, and the same idea being shown in several dishes on the menu.

The Upland Business and Professional Women's Club does not disband during the summer, and it was suggested that besides the regular monthly business meeting and luncheon held the second Tuesday of each month, that during the summer a second luncheon should be given, wherein just friendly "get-togetherness" should prevail. A light meal of salad, rolls and coffee was thought of, and the matter given approval.

CROMBIE ALLEN IS WELCOMED HOME

Crombie Allen, globe-trotter, just home from a round-the-world trip, received a hearty welcome home from the members of the Upland Rotary Club at the noon luncheon today. Short in weight because of illness which threatened for a time to become serious, Mr. Allen arrived home the other day and he stated in the short talk he gave that although Euclid Avenue had always appeared to him as a beautiful spot, it appeared on his return as being far superior to anything he had seen in his entire trip around the world.

E. W. Paul gave his craft talk before the Rotary Club today, telling of his early boyhood experiences here when boys sold lizards to tourists at 10c each. He also told of picking apricots at 1/3c a box for A. P. Harwood, but he didn't care for the job. F. W. received his grammar school and high school education here, then went to Pittsburg, where he took an electrical engineering course. After graduating he followed practical electrical operations for several years and was connected with the Huntington interests when the line to Long Beach was first put in.

In endeavoring to add speed to the new line, the trolleys failed to stay on and for several weeks it was a big problem. Finally Mr. Paul was named to investigate the cause, and in a humorous vein he told of riding on top of those cars in the middle of the night at 70 miles an hour, and just as long as he remained on top the trolleys stayed on, while if he rode inside the car they came off.

While with the Huntington interests he rebuilt the present Sierra Power plant in San Antonio Canyon, as well as the plant in Stone Castle on San Antonio Heights, together with numerous other plants in California and Arizona. He was later superintendent of a power plant in Pittsburg, and before taking the management of the Paul estate here was Superintendent of the Ontario Power Company. Mr. Paul is now president of the Commercial National Bank.

THE ECKSTEIN CUP FINALS TO BE PLAYED SUNDAY

LOOKS LIKE WHITNEY AND CRAIG FOR THE FINAL MATCH

Sixteen Players Enter Interesting Contest. Bracket Just Played Leaves Maffett-Whitney, Craig-Kincaid Still In

The Eckstein Cup tournament is proving one of the interesting events of the year at Red Hill Country Club and on Sunday next the final, which is a thirty-six-hole match, will be played.

By Saturday night the last bracket will have been completed and the two golfers to play in the final will be announced.

The second bracket in the tournament resulted as follows:

V. C. South defeated L. Scheu, 2 and 1.

W. M. Kincaid won from W. J. Campbell by default.

M. Shoemaker defeated J. W. Heinecke, 2 and 1.

W. H. Craig, Jr., defeated W. H. Andrews, 2 and 1.

N. A. Godsava defeated D. M. Kirkwood, 6 and 4.

A. B. Whitney defeated D. E. Hill, 4 and 3.

J. T. Maffett won over S. H. Vahres by default.

L. B. Fowler won over A. G. Markham by default.

Third Bracket

The third bracket resulted as follows:

W. M. Kincaid defeated V. C. South, 4 and 2.

W. H. Craig, Jr., defeated M. Shoemaker, 3 and 2.

J. T. Maffett defeated L. B. Fowler 1 up in a nineteen-hole match.

A. B. Whitney defeated N. A. Godsava 3 and 2.

Fourth Bracket

In the fourth bracket, which must be completed by Saturday night, W. M. Kincaid plays W. H. Craig, Jr., and J. T. Maffett plays A. B. Whitney.

If experience counts in golf the final will be played by W. H. Craig, Jr., and A. B. Whitney, but a lot of golfers claim that experience doesn't count for much and both W. M. Kincaid and J. T. Maffett have been known to play remarkable games, but thirty-six holes with a gallery following the players calls for unusual composure, and the more experience one has in tournament playing the better chance he has of winning.

W. H. Craig, Jr., won the president's cup tournament a few weeks ago and A. B. Whitney has been playing golf for several years and many believe that they will be in the finals.

NEW YORKER BUYS OLD S-A HOSPITAL

C. Cohn, of Los Angeles, and I but recently from New York, has purchased the property at West Tenth street and San Antonio avenue, formerly owned by the San Antonio Hospital.

Workmen are this week completely remodeling the building on the property and Mr. Cohn will establish a summer resort there where people may come to rest.

It is Mr. Cohn's plan to establish a playground for children along with many other innovations which will make his resort popular with the people.

UPLANDERS LEAVE FOR EXTENDED TRIP EAST

Mr. and Mrs. O. W. Youngdahl and little daughter left Upland Thursday on an extended motor trip to eastern states. They are traveling over the Old Trails Highway and will stop at Redfield, Kan., on the way, where they will visit relatives and friends. Continuing their journey, their next stop will be in Illinois, where they plan to visit a number of places and to spend a number of weeks. Chicago, Joliet and St. Mary's will be included in their stops and many pleasant times are anticipated during the three months' trip they have planned.

The confirmed city man is anxious to get near to nature, but he wishes to do it in an enclosed car and a steam-heated cabin.

Stop Illiteracy at the Source

(By Cora Wilson Stewart, Chairman, Illiteracy Commission N. E. A.)

(The movement to wipe out illiteracy in the United States was started thirteen years ago in the mountains of Kentucky. It has spread from state to state and now has spread to foreign lands. "A literate world in 1950" is the slogan, and here is a challenging message that links up the question with failure to enforce the school attendance law.)

There is a great hue and cry today for law enforcement, centering, of course, about the violations of the prohibition law. But our most frequently violated law is not the prohibition law, though the violations are flagrant enough. Our school attendance law is the least enforced law of the land and more of its violators go scot free than any other criminals. The slogan of Mary C. C. Bradford, State Superintendent of Public Instruction of Colorado, "Schools for the Children or Jails for the Parents," should be taken up by everyone and sounded to the remotest corners.

But better still let us remove the chief cause of these broken attendance laws by educating illiterate parents. They are in the main the ones who are keeping the children out of school. Louisiana, the most illiterate state in the union, has the smallest school attendance, and the most illiterate counties all over the nation have a percentage of school attendance that is deplorably low. These parents do not know anything about the need of education for the children.

The prevention of illiteracy in the future depends to a considerable extent on the removal of the illiteracy that has already occurred—occurred to the number of 5,000,000 men and women in this country, in round numbers, who have declared their illiteracy and millions, doubtless, who have not and will not declare it but who are under the blight just the same and whose children are under it, no less.

One of the first effects of an illiteracy campaign in communities and states that have organized and put it on in earnest is to start a running fire of comment such as this: "Why wipe out illiteracy if we are going to grow another crop of illiterates?" "Let's stop this thing at the source." That all leads naturally to a tightening up of the school attendance laws and better enforcement of them.

The crusade against illiteracy is aiding law enforcement. For five or six years past most of the schools for adult illiterates—moonlight schools and others—have taught a course in civics on the laws commonly violated. Laws relating to health, laws relating to property, laws relating to schools, to human life, and others, have been grouped and taught. Law enforcement is not a thing to be brought about altogether by an army of policemen. These and the courts have their part to play. But a better type of law enforcement, respect for and obedience to the law is a battle that must be fought by another army—by the teachers in the schools. They should begin with "the duty that lies nearest"—the enforcement of school attendance law.

Not Up to Cat and Canary

(Sacramento Bee)

Governor Roland H. Hartley of Washington must be a man of brains and common sense. In a recent statement, he said:

"What is the matter with our children today? In my opinion, they are being made to pay the penalty of an overabundance of altruistic twaddle. Too many mothers and fathers are giving their time to saving their neighbor's children, while their own are left to shift for themselves and do as they please."

What we need is to get back to the old-fashioned, truly American family circle. The home and the fireside today is left too much in charge of the cat and the canary.

The cat and the canary have their place, but they are not the proper guardians or caretakers for boys and girls.

And the father and mother who abandon the home to them, to the neighbors or to any other agency will some day suffer the penalty.

Nature inflicts her punishment for fundamental duties neglected and what is more fundamental than properly to train and affectionately to cherish a new life for which a man and woman are responsible?

Mr. Coolidge Objected

A movie concern has been taking pictures at the Annapolis Naval Academy, with the intent of showing to the country just what the life of a midshipman is like. A similar reel, or series of them, has been concluded at West Point, of the U. S. Army school. It was planned that the naval reel should close with the hero of the plot, dressed in a midshipman's uniform, among the class of '25, and getting his diploma from the hands of the President of the United States, but the President sat down on the scheme and refused to be a party to it. The motive behind the reel is all right, for it is made throughout with the approval and under the supervision of the academy heads. But the President does not propose to let the graduation of the young men of this year's class be mixed up with anything outside.

No matter what happens in France, the people are used to it.—Toledo Blade.

Reflected Glory

(Colton Courier)

Everywhere, on every side of us, men and women are looking for fame. They work and hope and strive to make the most of themselves and in many instances they succeed. And then what happens? If it is the man of a family who is successful in gaining his goal his wife and all of the relatives to say nothing of the countless friends who immediately spring up vie with each other to add to his importance. He is given every consideration, every thought and all possible assistance to continue his success. His wife is satisfied to be known as Mr. So-and-So's wife and she goes about in his reflected glory without thinking of jealousy or envy. She is proud that she is married to a man who can surpass other men in his chosen line of work and she radiates the joy of living as she exploits his achievements.

But should the success come to the wife, there is not that same camaraderie, that same exchange of good feeling, and this is not due to selfishness on the part of the husband either. Naturally the husband desires to be the head of the family. He takes that position when the preacher says "Dost Thou?" and he continues it through life unless some stroke of fortune gives the wife greater opportunities and she "wears the pants." It has always been admitted that Mr. Wilcox was invariably introduced with his wife as "Ella Wheeler Wilcox and husband." And now Charles G. Norris, husband of the famous Kathleen Norris, is going through the same struggle although he is the author of a number of very successful books. He says in a recent interview that he has even been introduced as Mr. Kathleen Norris.

In line with this overwhelming popularity of the wife, Mr. Norris says that a friend of his who married a little actress awakened one day to find that his pretty wife had become a star on Broadway. He was an artist of moderate distinction and frequently his name appeared in a corner of the Art columns but his wife's name was blazoned so constantly as a top-liner that he became morose and finally after enduring the stigma as he considered it for three years he left her. There was no quarrel, they loved each other devotedly, and they both had their careers, but he had too much pride to see himself introduced as her husband. This to him was the same as having their friends believe that she was supporting him, whereas he was making a fair game of life himself. Over-sensitiveness on the part of many men is responsible for this unfair condition. Their wives love them none the less devotedly and they should realize that their position as the husband of a famous woman should be just as satisfactory as a wife's position who is married to a famous genius.

No one scarcely ever hears of Mrs. Henry Ford, or Mrs. Thomas Edison, or Mrs. Luther Burbank, or Mrs. Harry Lauder, and yet it is known that those world famous men in their varying lines of accomplishment take the greatest pleasure in their home life. Their wives are their pals and they are content to rest upon the laurels of their husbands. If this same condition could be brought about in the homes where the wives occupy high political, professional, business or literary positions it would save many needless heartaches.

There should be no hesitancy in any man making the most of his wife's success and enjoying it with her the same as she would do if the success had come to him.

Education pays, unless you settle down to be an educator.—Martins Ferry Times.

Social Code for Great Open Spaces

(Stockton Independent)

The last word on "Etiquette," on which so many treatises have been published during the past few years, is "Outdoor Good Manners." As usual, the author is a woman, in this instance being Mrs. F. E. Whitley of Webster City, Iowa, a conservative leader in America.

If Mrs. Whitley's etiquette of the outdoors was strictly observed, a great step forward would be made in conserving the natural beauty of countryside and forest. Discussing the obligations of those who enjoy the prodigality of nature's loveliness, Mrs. Whitley says:

"What return a guest owes for hospitality is a question which might well be asked of any party of gay picnickers starting off for a spring day in the country. No guest who has been entertained at a friend's dinner party would raid the decorations, yet how many who have eaten their sandwiches and cake on a carpet of wild flowers bear off great armfuls of blossoms plucked up by the roots? How many who have rejoiced in the welcome shade and grateful peace of the woods leave that place defaced and besmirched?"

To mar the home of an individual is to injure the property of one person, to desecrate trees or oaks or any thing that belongs to the great outdoors is to destroy that whose beauty and comfort belongs to all who may have the good fortune to behold it.

Let us hope that the time is not far distant when one's good breeding and thoughtfulness will be gauged quite as much by his conduct in the great out-of-doors as by his observance of the social conventions of everyday life.

Address Your Letters Plainly

The News takes pleasure in endorsing the following sentiments published in the Chino Champion, particularly the last sentence:

The postoffice department is engaged in a very worthy attempt to put over a publicity campaign of education through which it is hoped the public can be induced to do a better job of addressing letters, thus lessening the number that find their way to the dead letter office in Washington.

The department is urging people to address their letters more plainly, sending out a number of slogans they wish used in the publications of the country. We can suggest one to add to the number of excellent ones already originated by the department. It would read: "Be sure your letter is properly addressed and that it bears a return card which gives your proper name and address. Also be sure the return card is printed by your local printer."

New Belles and Bells

With rings on her fingers and bells on her toes, she will have music wherever she goes," sang our English ancestors, but it is doubtful if they envisioned the new fad of the belles of the present day, with little tinklers dependent from their garters as well as from their ears. Whether this innovation set by a film artist will become an actual fad on the part of our belles in other walks of life only a seventh son of a seventh son could predict. Experience tells us that it might easily be so. Fashion moves in mysterious ways and we must be reconciled to the result of its occult inspirations.

These bells speak a language far more interesting than their mere tinkling as an indication of the possessor's joy of life. Take the ear ornament for instance. The smiling belle who has but a single tinkler hanging there announces to the world and especially to interesting young men, that she is unengaged if not heart-free. Two bells tell him that she is engaged, but possibly not beyond recall. Three bells announce that a marriage knot has been tied, but that even then a case of true love should not be considered hopeless. The divorce courts are open six days a week and all the year round. Did Poe foresee these ear and garter bells when he wrote his wonderful lines about listening to the tintinnabulation of the bells?

Bells worn about the person, especially on or near the pedal extremities, appear to have been a very ancient custom indeed, and not always to have met with the approval of the righteous. Among the reasons for foretelling woe upon Israel, the prophet Isaiah said: "Moreover the Lord saith, Behold the daughters of Zion are haughty, and walk with stretched forth neck and wanton eyes, walking and mincing as they go, making a tinkling with their feet." It was another Israelite, a great man of wisdom, who said, "there is nothing new under the sun," not even bells on the limbs, nor the spiritual condition which leads to their wearing.

THE ADVERTISER'S LOVE SONG

You have the Skin I Love to Touch.
You've kept that smooth School Girl Complexion.
Because I Love Nice Things so much
You've won my heart and my affection.
I love your Sun-kist hair, your smile;
Your kisses—I cannot deny
For one of them I'd Walk a Mile,
They're Mild and Yet They Satisfy.
It's plain Such Popularity
Must Be Deserved. With all my power,
I'll tell the world you are to me
A miracle, Fresh Every Hour.
Yes, There's a Reason—which is you!
About me your enchantment casts
A spell which is forever new—
In other words—The Flavor Lasts.
Oh, let me always be about
To guard you from life's many ills,
Absorb the Shocks That Tire You Out
And pay your board and lodging bills.
Eventually, Why Not Now?
We'll settle down, no more to roam,
And have—if so the fates allow—
A Little Fairy in Our Home!
—Berton Braley in Judge

THE DESTRUCTION OF THE SENNACHERIB

The Assyrian came down like the wolf on the fold,
And his cohorts were gleaming in purple and gold,
And the sheen of their spears was like stars on the sea,
When the blue wave rolls nightly on deep Galilee.

Like the leaves of the forest when summer is green,
That host with their banners at sunset were seen;
Like the leaves of the forest when autumn hath blown,
That host on the morrow lay withered and strown.

For the Angel of Death spread his wings on the blast,
And breathed in the face of the foe as he passed;
And the eyes of the sleepers waxed deadly and chill,
And their hearts but once heaved, and forever grew still.

And there lay the steed with his nostril all wide,
But through it there rolled not the breath of his ride;
And the foam of his gasping lay white on the turf,
And cold as the spray of the rock-beating surf.

And there lay the rider, distorted and pale,
With the dew on his brow, and the rust on his mail;
And the tents were all silent, the banners alone,
The lances unlifted, the trumpet unblown.

And the widows of Ashur are loud in their wail,
And the idols are broke in the temple of Baal,
And the might of the Gentile, unsmote by the sword,
Hath melted like snow in the glance of the Lord!
—Lord Byron

THE PATH

Blest be the man who makes a path
For weary feet to follow—
A path that finds the shortest way
O'er hill and dale and hollow.
Now winding through a leafy grove,
A shy, secluded by-way,
Now plunging headlong down a bank
To meet the traveled highway.

A slender path, a gipsy trail,
Half hid by purple shadows
Of friendly, overarching trees
That girdle the green meadows.
In sun and rain, each day I go,
O'er hillside and through hollow,
And bless the man who made the path
For homing feet to follow!
—Edith D. Osborne, in St. Nicholas

THE SHY ONES

I very often like to hide away
Up in the hayloft, in a nest of hay,
Where little shy things, gentle moths and mice,
Come play with me, because they think I'm nice.

Sometimes I quite pretend I am a mouse
And tremble, lest the horses eat my house;
And then I am a moth, and crawl about
With eyes tight shut, hunting the best way out.

They're always very friendly and polite,
And show me how to play with all their might,
But when they know I'm gone and cannot see
I think they like to play at being me!

—V. W. M., in Life.

SPRING IN ORIZABA

Those were afternoons!—with chit chit falling,
A dusk of water on the jungle land,
Bringing out the orchids like butterflies in the treetops,
Cooling with lilies the winter-favored land.

Was there ever such an insolence of growing
As that green splendor from the canyons profound?
Uprush of life and leap of white water
And yellow mangos lavished on the ground!

Those were mornings!—when tuberoses proffered
A thousand silver vases of fragrance to the sun,
When calla lilies held brave congress at the brookside
And the great ivory moonflowers broke one by one.
—Marion Strong

Rough Dry

Many housewives prefer this service. Everything washed in rainsoft water. Articles like knit underwear, hosiery, bath towels, are fluffed dry, ready for use. Those pieces needing it are starched. Only the ironing of the lighter pieces is left to be done at home.

"Serves You Right"
 It is ten years ago since we started business next door to Dr. Craig's office on a very wet October day. It soon became evident that if we were to take care of our trade properly we would have to have larger quarters. That's where the thought of Upland's first "Service Station" and Southern California's first "Super-Service Station" originated. If "imitation is the sincerest form of flattery" then we have reason to be very proud, for you well know the result. We endeavor to "serve you right"—for one sale is no good to us—there must be the repeat, and still more, before we are satisfied. Come in and make our acquaintance.

ENTERTAINS HER KINDERGARTEN CLASS—

Miss Louise Harris' kindergarten room at the Tenth Street School was the scene of a very merry party last Thursday morning, when Mrs. Novella Highsmith and Mrs. P. H. McQuillen entertained the little tots, the occasion being little Ellen Highsmith's sixth birthday. A beautiful pink birthday cake, gay with its decorations of candles and the name Ellen written across the top, was the center of an admiring crowd of 26 children.

Late in the morning the children were served with ice cream and birthday cake, and Miss Ellen was the recipient of many birthday gifts.

LAWSON—MURRAY MARRIAGE—

News of the wedding of Norman Lawson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carlos S. Lawson, of Euclid Avenue and Thirteenth Street, to Miss Jennie Murray of Glasgow, which was celebrated at the Grand Hotel, Glasgow, Scotland, on Wednesday, June 3rd, will prove of much interest to Upland and Ontario society folk.

Mr. Lawson is very well known here, prominent in both the Red Hill Country Club and the Lions Club, and is a partner in the Stamm-Lawson Radio Manufacturing Company, and his friends will hear with pleasure that he and his bride are expected here early in July to make their future home in Upland.

SURPRISE PARTY SATURDAY NIGHT—

Celebrating her husband's birthday, Mrs. Roy Karr was hostess at a very cleverly planned surprise party on Saturday evening at their home, 552 Eighth Avenue, when a number of friends arrived to wish Mr. Karr "many happy returns of the day."

Cards and music made the evening pass quickly, and delicious refreshments were served at the close of a merry time. Those invited to join in the surprise party were Mr. and Mrs. Harry Karr, Mr. and Mrs. W. Merle Rash, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Karr, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Mowers, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Forester, Miss Edna Forester, the Misses Irma and Irene Karr, Edward Allen, Russell Hoffman.

KIRKWOOD—LATTO WEDDING—

Wedding bells rang merrily on Saturday when Kelly Kirkwood, son of Mr. and Mrs. D. M. Kirkwood of Upland, and Miss Bernice Latto, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. O. V. Latto of Long Beach, were married at the Mission Inn, Riverside, the ceremony taking place at 11:30 a.m., in the Cloister Music Room.

While the musician played the Bridal Chorus from Lohengrin, the wedding party marched to the altar, where the Rev. C. A. Kent, pastor of the First Methodist Church of this city, read the service, the ring ceremony being used. Love songs were played on the organ during the wedding, and Mendelssohn's Wedding March followed as the bridal party passed into the Spanish Gallery for the informal reception.

The bride was gowned in a lovely ensemble suit of flesh-colored georgette and wore a picture hat of orchid shade. She carried a shower bouquet, and was attended by Miss Jane Hulsizer of Los Angeles as bridesmaid. W. J. Fink, bright of Long Beach acted as best man.

The wedding breakfast was served in the patio at the Mission Inn, and besides the bridal party, covers were marked for Mr. and Mrs. D. M. Kirkwood, parents of the groom; Mr. and Mrs. O. V. Latto, parents of the bride; Bruce Latto, brother of the bride; Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Rouse, Miss Dorothy Reed, Miss Louise Code, Miss Hazel Heck.

The bride and groom left late in the afternoon for Yosemite, where they will spend their honeymoon. They will make their future home in Long Beach, where Mr. Kirkwood is associated with the Automobile Club.

CHICKEN DINNER FOR CHAFFEE CLASS—

Fulfilling a promise made to his stock-judging class of Chaffee boys, that a chicken dinner with all accessories should be given them if they did their work well at an exhibit held at Brawley in the spring, Mr. Charles Perrin was host to a group of boys composing the first and second teams and a few friends, at a delicious chicken dinner, cooked and served by Mrs. Perrin, on Thursday, at their Eighth Avenue home. At 5:30 the guests sat down to an excellent meal, one that will long be remembered. Roses and pink carnations, with sprays of ferns, decorated the table and house, and during dinner repartee and merry quips flew fast and thick among the boys, who numbered Percy Douglas, Robert Ohley, Chester Stock, Morris Williams, Franklin Hall, Wesley Castle, Arthur Allen, George Reeder, Merrill Cook, Glenmore Imback.

ENTERTAINS IN HONOR OF DAUGHTER'S BIRTHDAY—

The house was lovely with fragrant carnations that had been sent from Sacramento by Barbara's uncle, A. W. Bell, for the auspicious occasion, and a beautiful birthday cake, the gift of Mrs. Bess Jones, Barbara's grandmother, was also sent from Sacramento.

At a late hour, dainty refreshments of cream and cake were served to the following little folks and their mothers: Lynette Grahame, Ernest Fisher, Jr., Ruby Hildebrand, Amy Hildebrand, Jean Mehl, Adele Jennings, John Anderson and James Benson; Mrs. J. L. Grahame, Mrs. E. W. Fisher, Mrs. Lucy Hildebrand, Mrs. H. Anderson, Mrs. R. E. Jennings, Mrs. Charles Benson and Mrs. Sam Lamb.

Mrs. Jenison was presented with a year's subscription to the American Magazine, with the hope expressed by the class that she would think of them at least once a month, when the magazine arrived. Among those present beside the complimented guest were Mrs. Harry Jenison, Mrs. Howard Engle, Mrs. George Foote, Mrs. E. C. Rosenberger, Mrs. Cecil Chambers, Mrs. Ralph Marr, Mrs. Mable Tracy, Mrs. J. B. MISCELLANEOUS SHOWER FOR BRIDE-ELECT—

Mrs. Clio Noble, whose marriage to Waldo Voth of Campus Avenue, is announced for Tuesday, June 16th, was the guest of honor at a very cleverly arranged miscellaneous shower given by Mrs. Charles Foster of Riverside at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph B. Leaman, West Tenth Street, on Thursday evening.

An artistic color scheme of red and white was effectively carried out in paper crepe decorations and bouquets of red carnations. Gifts for the bride-elect, which were many in number, were showered upon her, and she received a variety of useful and dainty articles for her new home.

Prizes in a guessing contest were won by Mrs. Hubbard Evans, and Mrs. Earl Samuel, and delicious refreshments were served at the close of the merry affair.

Invited to share in the evening's entertainment were Mrs. Mark Bailey, Mrs. Hubbard Evans, Mrs. J. B. Leaman, Mrs. A. H. Goodwin, Mrs. Jack Estes, Miss Anna Voth, of Upland; Mrs. Jas. Evans, Mrs. Earl Samuels, Mrs. Byron Rutledge, Miss Bess Wheeler, Ontario; Mrs. Orville Leaman, Mrs. Lester Bennett, Highland; Mrs. Rudolph Isaacs, Pomona; Mrs. DuWayne Ammerman, Arlington; Mrs. Wesley Ingram, Rialto.

ENTERTAIN IN HONOR OF LOS ANGELES GUESTS—

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Graves, 693 Second Avenue, entertained a party of Los Angeles friends at a weekend party on Saturday and Sunday.

The house was beautifully decorated with wild flowers and oak boughs, and various amusements were provided for the guests during their short stay here. Mr. and Mrs. Graves' party numbered Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Engelman, Mr. and Mrs. Frank E. Cherry, Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Amell, Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Steele, Miss Bernice Amell, Fred Rodden, Vernon Cherry, Herbert Engelman and J. W. McConkey of Upland.

POOLE—EVANS WEDDING—

Amid an artistic setting of red and white carnations, white rosebuds and asparagus fern, a very pretty wedding ceremony was witnessed by some thirty-five people on Saturday evening, when Miss Christine Eva Evans, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Evans, became the bride of Ronald A. Poole of Upland at the home of her parents, 791 East Ninth Street.

While Mrs. Fred McMullen sang "Oh Promise Me," heralding the approach of the wedding party, little Ethel Graves, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Graves, daintily attired in pink, and looking like a rosebud herself, flung rose petals in the pathway of the bride, who entered the room to the strains of the Bridal March from Lohengrin, meeting the groom and best man under an archway of ferns banked by baskets of carnations.

The bride wore a lovely gown of white georgette crepe with an over-frock of lace, and carried a shower bouquet. She was attended by Mrs. Viola Evans of Fullerton as matron of honor, and Charles B. Fondren of Whittier acted as best man to the groom.

Dr. R. C. Stone, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, officiated at the simple but impressive ceremony, at the close of which "I Love You Truly" was sung by Mrs. McMullen.

Following the wedding, an informal reception was held, when Miss Geneva Benner played the violin, accompanied on the piano by Miss Marion Short, and the guests were privileged to view the many beautiful wedding gifts received by the young couple.

The bride's cake was cut after the fashion of the Spanish nation, the bride and groom both starting from a given point and cutting slices in opposite directions until they met on the last slice. The cake, with pineapple sherbet served the guests, and during the merry hour that followed the bride slipped away to change into a travelling gown, and before anyone realized it, Mr. and Mrs. Poole were on their way towards the beaches, where they are spending their honeymoon. Mr. Poole is on The Upland News force, and on their return he and his wife will make their home at 256 G St.

Several out-of-town friends were present at the ceremony, among them being Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Coiborn from Fullerton, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Rudolph of Glendora, Miss Anne Welker of Glendora, E. J. Crabb of Pomona, and others.

ENTERTAIN DINNER-GUESTS—

Mr. and Mrs. Byron Russell entertained a number of out-of-town guests at dinner on Sunday, the house and dining-table were fragrant with beautiful flowers and those enjoying Mr. and Mrs. Russell's hospitality were Mr. and Mrs. Robert Neyman and daughter, Miss Ethel McDonald, of Rialto; Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Smith and baby of Highland, and Mr. and Mrs. Edward Russell of Upland.

SALVATION ARMY ASKS CLOTHING

The Upland News has been asked to publish an appeal from Captain Philip Lawton, head of the Salvation Army in this end of the county, asking that people keep their clothing here so that it may be used for the benefit of the local ones in need of welfare help.

It has come to his knowledge that Upland and Ontario people are sending their cast-off clothing to the Salvation Army headquarters in Los Angeles, when it would be far better to have it distributed among those in need of it in the two towns. Magazines and papers, said Captain Lawton, the local force has no need of, but those having clothing to give away will confer a favor on the Army and all those "out of luck" if they will phone 523-J, Ontario, when a machine will gladly be sent to any address given.

LEAVES FOR EAST

From Sunny California with its wealth of Spanish history, its romantic stories of gay caballeros and pretty señoritas, its legends of buried treasure and Indian folk lore, back to Syracuse, N.Y., to attend a reunion of members of the Austin family, who have made their home in the one district for over 200 years, is the object of Dr. Austin J. Pressy's journey back east. Dr. Pressy is father of Mrs. J. N. Dean of Seventh Street, and his people settled in New England in the seventeenth century. Over one hundred direct descendants of the original Austins are living in the same place; their ancestors chose, and Dr. Pressy is anticipating a very interesting trip. He will unveil a monument in the old Quaker cemetery near the original homestead of the Austin family, which has recently been erected.

Spring fever wouldn't hurt so much if there was some cure besides work.

ONTARIO

Armed with a John Doe warrant, charging reckless driving, Ontario police were today awaiting the arrival at a local garage of a motorist who Sunday night crashed into another car on East A Street, seriously injuring Mrs. Ralph Santolucito of Cucamonga, and then went on, refusing to give aid.

According to Mr. Santolucito, he and his wife and two children were driving east on A Street when the alleged reckless driver, going west, suddenly darted from the line of traffic and struck them head on. Mrs. Santolucito was badly cut about the face and breast and eight stitches were required to close her wounds after she had been taken to the San Antonio Community Hospital by passing motorists.

Mr. Santolucito stated today that, believing his wife to be critically injured, he appealed to the driver of the other machine to help him, but that the latter refused to get out and proceeded west. It was later learned that the man left his machine for repairs at an A Street garage and promised to return for it, but late this evening he had not put in an appearance.

Although both children were severely jolted by the collision, an infant being hurled through the windshield of the Santolucito car onto the radiator, both escaped serious injury, as did also the father.

Play's The Thing "Don't become so dignified that you can't play. And don't forget you were cut out to play. It is a big thing to learn how."

These were some of the admonitions to his hearers of W. J. Compton, archery expert and lover, in a talk yesterday before members of the Ontario Realty Board in luncheon session at the Hotpoint Club on the hobby which has become his vocation.

In connection with his plea for play and its importance, Mr. Compton, who has recently come to Ontario to make his home, referred to the recent gathering of statistics in the state of Iowa relative to the amount of acreage which has been given over to golf courses, and declared it to be the consensus of opinion among thinking people that the building of many golf links was the best investment the state had ever made.

Mr. Compton declared golf a good game and a splendid form of amusement and exercise, but he held archery to be at once more fascinating and health-giving. He pointed out that the archer needs no course, but can "do his stuff" in his own garden, and added "you can't hunt big game with a golf club and ball."

As a result of his archery activities, Mr. Compton expressed the belief that a sounder man of 62 years could not be found in the world. The speaker declared that from early youth he had always made bows and arrows and hunted with them, and it was not until 1909 that he knew there was another white man in the country who shot with the bow. He then commenced a study of the history of archery from earliest times and learned that there are several archers' clubs in the United States.

Mr. Compton displayed a yew bow patterned after the war bows which are today recognized as having made England. The Ontario man outfitted the Stewart Edward White party which has gone to Africa to hunt big game with bows and arrows. He told of killing huge grizzly bears with bows and arrows and also displayed the type of arrows used for hunting small game.

Contrary to the popular belief of the uninitiate, the speaker declared the killing of wild animals with bow and arrow to be much more humane than with the use of guns. An animal hit with an arrow is never able to crawl away to die in torture as when hit with a bullet, he pointed out, and cited an example in which an archer with 18 shots bagged 13 squirrels, while another hunter armed with a rifle made 39 shots and bagged only 19 squirrels.

Mr. Compton recited an instance in which a huge grizzly died within 52 seconds after one shot from a bow. He held that a rhinoceros can be killed more quickly with bow and arrow than with a gun. The speaker referred to the work before the motion picture camera in Alaska with bow and arrow by Art Young, whom the Ontario man taught the archer's art, and stated that these pictures are shortly to be released.

Mr. Compton declared hunting with bow and arrow to be real sport, while hunting with a gun he described as a "clinch" and no sport at all.

President C. R. Combs opened the meeting and the speaker was introduced by Ralph M. Myers, chairman of the program committee. Secretary James R. Austin announced that Assemblyman Isaac Jones will address the board next week on real estate legislation, and that the week following W. J. Schaeffer of the California Canning Company, which recently opened a factory here, will be the speaker.

When You Want Them You Invite Them In

WHEN you want your neighbor and his wife to come over to Thanksgiving dinner, what do you do about it? Get the meal ready without saying a word, and then sit down to wait for 'em to come!

No! Why not?

They know you have a turkey dinner ready. They know you're hospitable. They know you'll be glad to see them any time, holiday or not.

Then what is to prevent your expecting them?

Nothing in the world except that, when people are wanted, they expect to be invited.

Even in business matters, they want to be sure they're wanted—and that provision is made for their wants.

Business, you argue, is different from social routine.

In some respects it is.

But—"people are people" in one as in the other. They're just as human.

They want to be sure of a practical welcome.

They want to know in advance that you've planned for them and are expecting them.

Your advertisement is that kind of an invitation.

The Upland Business Men's Association will not sponsor a Fourth of July celebration here this year. The board of directors made the decision yesterday when the board met at lunch at Mac the Medicine Man's fountain. One of the most successful celebrations ever held here was staged last year, but as it necessitates a lot of work and this year the date is on Saturday and allows for two-days' vacation, the board decided to abandon the idea, but would co-operate with any other organization that wanted to sponsor a celebration.

President Glenn M. Atwood of the Upland Lions Club has not been presented with a "song." Mr. Atwood states that thus far no one has dedicated a song to him, but he was presented with a song which he uses to attract the attention of members of the Lions Den when they get to "milling" around. Why that silly "s" should break in on the song is just another freak in newspaper work.

"LA GOLONDRINA" TO CLOSE ON JUNE 21ST

Less than two weeks remain of the first seasonal run of "La Golondrina" (The Swallow) in the old Mission Playhouse at San Gabriel. The play will close with a matinee performance on Sunday, June 21.

The unique organization of players which John Steven McGrawarty has trained and developed during fourteen years at San Gabriel will take a well earned rest. Not only did they play a successful season of the Mission Play this year but to that added the strenuous work entailed in the production of a new play, "La Golondrina" (The Swallow), the second of a trilogy of California plays which Mr. McGrawarty is writing for this state. Most of the players have long records of loyal service; many others have found added glory in other fields from the training given them at the Mission Playhouse.

With the close of "La Golondrina" will follow the interval of summer and autumn months until the annual opening of the Mission Play on New Year's Day.

Teddy wore a RED sailor hat with a white star on the top. His sailor collar and tie also his cuffs and the stripe on his sleeve were RED too. His sailor suit was white with dark BLUE trousers.

"I've got an egg!" cried little YELLOW-haired Susie May. "I've got a great big BROWN chocolate Easter egg!"

Susie May had her very best Easter hat on. It was a very light YELLOW trimmed with a garland of PINK (use RED lightly) wild roses and GREEN leaves. Her Teddy laid his pot of YELLOW daffodils down on the GRAY (use BLACK lightly) pavement. The daffodils had long GREEN leaves and the RED pot they were in was covered with GREEN crepe paper and tied with a pretty PURPLE bow.

The sky was bright BLUE and the wall by which the children stood, was GRAY plaster. Some of the plaster had broken off and you could see the RED (use BROWN with it) bricks.

Susie May and Teddy both had PINK cheeks. Susie's eyes were BLUE.

The border of this picture should be GREEN and the lettering above PURPLE.

ONE LARK

His train came puffing into the station and Ruth and Dick Hatfield anxiously scanned all the faces of the people coming out.

"There! That must be Marion!" cried Ruth.

A pretty young girl of about fifteen was just getting off the train. The children ran to her. She was Marion, their cousin from the city, who had come to spend the Easter vacation with her aunt on the farm.

Ruth thought she had never seen anything as stylish and beautiful as Marion. Dick thought she looked like a good sport, for there was a twinkle in her blue eyes and some freckles on her nose. She brought a trunk as well as a hat box and traveling bag.

"I've brought something nice for each of you," she hinted.

They all got into the buggy—the roads were still too soft for the flivver—and off they set for home. It took them three hours to get home, but in the flivver they could make it in forty minutes. Well, never mind! There was so much to talk about and Marion wanted to drive, she had never driven a horse and buggy before. It was lots of fun, and seemed only a few minutes before they were creeping in at the gate.

Of course, the children were very curious to know what the "something nice" was which Marion had for them, and they hung around expectantly until Marion opened her trunk and brought out her surprises.

Well, well! You never heard such cries of delight from Ruth and her mother. Dick was strangely silent. Marion had brought Easter finery from the city.

"You see," she explained, "I am taking dressmaking at the High School, and they teach you to sew on real clothes. I had plenty as Mother makes mine and so I made these Easter outfits for you and Dick."

She held up Ruth's outfit first.

and Ruth had to try it on at once. There was a pink silk dress, very neatly and stylishly made, and a pink silk hat to match. There was a pale gray coat of some smooth wool material. There was some pretty underwear trimmed with lace. Ruth could hardly bear to take the things off, they were so becoming.

But alas for Dick! "I was supposed to make a suit in my tailoring course," said Marion. "So I made one for you, Dick."

It was some suit! It was dark brown velvet and had long trousers. Marion said it was a "Kate Greenaway" suit. Kate sounded like a girl's name to Dick. The brown velvet trousers buttoned on to a pongee waist with great white buttons, but there was a little jacket to go over it, but it wasn't big enough to hide the shameful sight. They made Dick put it on. Dick was eight and big for his age. He was always a bit grubby, and his stockings were always slack and his shoes muddy and turned up at the toes. Ruth laughed but she wouldn't say why. She said she'd just thought of a joke somebody told her once, but when Dick demanded to know what it was, she said she couldn't remember.

"He looks too dear for anything!" cried his admiring mother. "Dick you look real classy for once in your life."

"It's the sweetest suit I ever saw!" exclaimed Ruth, stressing the word "suit."

"I hope you like it Dick," said Marion, doubtfully.

She looked so worried that Dick hadn't the heart to tell his real thoughts. Well, Easter was a couple of days off—anything might happen before then, maybe the end of the world, or it might blizzard. Dick took off the Easter outfit and tried to forget it.

"I made one mistake, Dick," explained his cousin in her sweet way. "I made the back part of the trousers lap over the front part. Don't forget when you are buttoning them up, will you? The back buttons over the front. I'm afraid you'd better not try to use the pockets because, on account of my little mistake, the pockets turn backwards instead of forward and if you put anything into them you'd have lumps in the back."

Ruth Laughed But Wouldn't Say Why

"All right," muttered Dick.

The little church where the Hatfields usually went was only a couple of miles down the mountain, but eight miles off in town was a larger church which advertised special Easter music. Marion thought she would like to go to the larger church, and Ruth did too. Dick thought to himself, that if he must be dressed like a monkey he would rather not appear in the

"Let's not go to church!" said Ruth, her teeth chattering.

"Prince has to rest before he can go all the way back," said Dick, unconcernedly, wrapping himself up in one of the quilts. "Oh, boy! this is warm and nice! Dad was right. One lark doesn't make a summer."

The girls were cold and wet in a short time. Dick, who was afraid Ruth would get sick, she was sneezing so.

"Let's stop at old Mrs. Jenny's,"

THE EASTER CHICK

PEEP, peep! Peep, peep! I wonder how I lived inside that shell? I'm mighty glad I'm out of it—More glad than I can tell!

Where can I be, I wonder? Dear, I sha'n't find out for hours! But anyhow this seems a world Of sunshine and of flow'rs.

And I've arrived I'm certain on Some very happy day, For birds are singing gaily where The tall white lilies sway.

And why won't someone feed me? This Neglect is scarcely right! Altho' a little chick I've got A great big appetite!

family pew in their own village church. So it was decided that Mr. and Mrs. Hatfield should go to the little church and the three children down to the big church.

Easter Day dawned bright and fair, but the clouds were lively. Dick was used to looking up and figuring on the weather. He looked up hopefully from time to time. The old horse was so slow, Mrs. Hatfield got the children off real early.

"Don't you think they'll be cold in those clothes?" inquired Mr. Hatfield, mildly.

"Oh, I guess not," replied the proud mother. "Don't they look nice!"

"One lark doesn't make a summer," remarked the father, looking queerly at his son.

"Maybe they'd better take their warm wraps," said Mrs. Hatfield.

"Then we'd have to lug them around," objected Ruth. "Please don't make us. We're plenty warm."

Marion agreed. She hated to spoil the effect of her new suit, an ensemble suit, by wearing her old coat over it.

Off they set creeping down the mountain. Dick didn't care how slowly they went. He kept warning his cousin not to hurry the horse, which he said was old and feeble. They were half way down when a cold wind began to blow, and just as they reached the town the rain began to fall.

Very blue and covered with goose-flesh, the girls huddled together.

"Cheer up!" cried Dick. "I put some warm things for us in the back."

"Oh, Dick, you dear thoughtful boy!" cried Marion.

But she changed her mind in a minute. Dick had not put their warm wraps in, he had brought three large old crazy quilts of his mother's.

"We can't put those on!" cried Marion. "Oh, dear!"

The HANDY BOY AT HOME

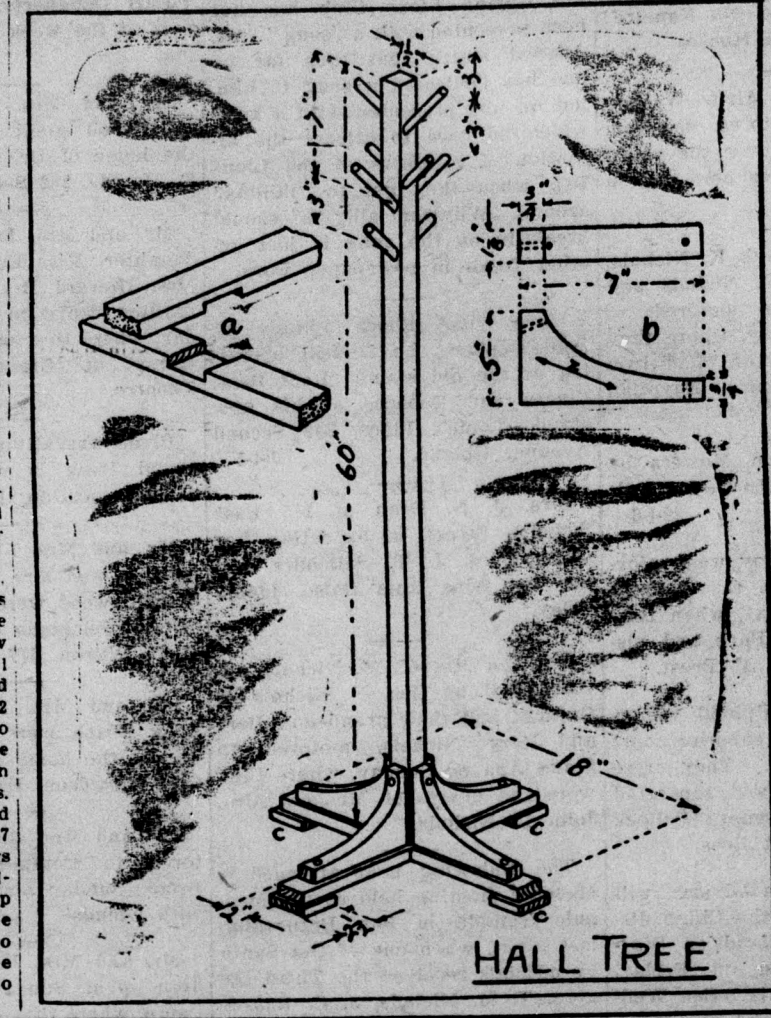

BY CHARLES A. KING,
STATE NORMAL SCHOOL, PLYMOUTH, N.H.

HALL TREE

THIS useful piece of hall or bedroom furniture may be made by any member of the "Handy Boy Club" who has the ability to saw or to plane accurately to required dimensions.

The project may be made of any moderately hard, well seasoned wood. Make the standard $1\frac{1}{2}$ x $1\frac{1}{2}$ x 60; bore $\frac{1}{4}$ holes for the pegs as indicated, giving the dowel a rather sharp upward inclination, making each hole $1\frac{1}{2}$ deep at the lower side; center them on a line $\frac{1}{2}$ from the edge of the post to avoid striking the corresponding holes of the opposite side. Metal hat and coat hooks may be used instead of dowels if preferred, in which case be sure that the back plate of the hook is not wider than the thickness of the post. If desired a $1\frac{1}{2}$ post may be used which will be thick enough for most metal hooks.

Make the base $\frac{3}{4}$ x 2 x 18" joined with a halved lock joint as shown at a. Make braces b, the grain running as shown by arrow points; smooth and sandpaper all pieces; glue base together and fasten to upright with one 2" No. 12 screw through the base, and into the bottom of the post. Fit the braces b one at a time and fasten with glue and round head screws. Cut feet c $\frac{1}{2}$ x $2\frac{1}{2}$ x $2\frac{1}{2}$ and fasten with glue used sparingly to avoid squeaking it out around the pegs. Stain, shellac and wax to suit.

EASTER

Ruth suggested through her chattering teeth.

They drove up to the little frame house and were greeted by old Mrs. Jenny, who was too crippled up with rheumatism to get out to church. There was a fire in her chunk stove and Easter flowers in the windows. My! she was glad to see them. It had been that lonely! She brought out cake and made hot cocoa. Then Marion sat down at the little organ and played the Easter hymns and they all sang.

"I ain't had such a helpful Easter Day in years," said Mrs. Jenny as her guests departed, looking more like a bunch of Indians than anything else.

"Cheer up!" cried Dick. "I put some warm things for us in the back."

"Oh, Dick, you dear thoughtful boy!" cried Marion.

But she changed her mind in a minute. Dick had not put their warm wraps in, he had brought three large old crazy quilts of his mother's.

"We can't put those on!" cried Marion. "Oh, dear!"

EASTER to many of us means a time to wear our new spring outfits for the first time and to promenade down the main thoroughfare of the town so that everybody may see and admire them. To others Easter means chickens and bunnies and baskets filled with chocolate eggs, dyed eggs and jolly egg hunts. But Easter stands for something entirely different. Behind the fanciful Easter plays and celebrations is something deeper that has found its inspiration in the heart of man since the earth was young. Today Easter is observed as a Church Festival. Special services are conducted in the churches, special hymns are sung and special prayers are read. Easter means Re-creation, Resurrection, Rebirth, reawakening. From the earliest times man has dreaded the cold of winter, and the short dull days and the long dark nights. With the coming of the spring life assumed a different aspect. The days lengthened, the skies brightened. The hard barren fields softened and green shoots appeared. Trees blossomed again, the birds returned to nest in their leafy branches and the whole earth that but a short time before had seemed dead and cold suddenly awoke and lived again. Nature shook off the shackles of ice that had bound her through the winter. Was that not cause for rejoicing? In every religion, pagan and civilized we find spring festivals. We call our festival Easter. The Jews celebrate Passover, in other languages and among other peoples the festival has different names, but the spirit behind it is the same.

In the ancient times much stress was laid on the celebration of the spring festival. Sacrifices were laid on the altars of the gods and everyone rejoiced that the earth had been reborn. The Sun was greeted upon his return with much acclamation. Songs of joy and triumphal processions and dances took place. These ancient customs spread throughout the world. When Christianity became the prevailing religion of Europe, the wise monks who spread the teachings of the Great Teacher showed their wisdom and foresight by their tactful handling of the pagans with whom they dealt. They did not say: "Your way is all wrong. Our way is all right." No, they showed the right way by practice and unobtrusively merged their festivals with the festivals then celebrated in the countries where they lived. Thus the pagan welcome to the Sun god became the beautiful Easter celebration, and was participated in with fervor by the new converts to Christianity. Today, no matter what our creed the spirit of Easter creeps upon us. We like nature, deck ourselves in the reindeer. We rejoice in the awakening of the fields and forests and we lift our voices on high with hymns of praise to Him who made this land and life the wondrous thing it is.

CITIES LOSE BY RECENT DECISION

San Bernardino County treasury is entitled to the fines collected in the recorder's courts of cities of the fifth and sixth classes and demand probably will be made soon that the cities of the county affected turn over their court fines to the county treasurer, it became known Wednesday, following receipt of a telegram from Governor Friend W. Richardson that two legislative measures which would have allowed the cities to keep the fines were included in the large number of bills which suffered the "pocket veto." The telegram was received in Colton.

The fine money which the county may claim is that collected in assessments made by the courts against persons found guilty of violation of the state liquor and traffic laws. Colton is one of the cities principally affected by the terms of a recent decision by the Appellate Court, which was sought to be corrected by the two measures passed by the legislature and sponsored by the League of Municipalities.

Seven Cities Included

Other San Bernardino County cities of the fifth and sixth class include Redlands, Upland, Ontario, Victorville, Rialto and Needles. It is estimated that several thousand dollars is collected in the local courts of these cities each month and the county treasury will be enriched by that amount upon demand.

When the attention of county officials was called to the Appellate Court ruling several weeks ago in connection with a case appealed from Fresno County, they declared that they would investigate and make demand upon the city treasurers of San Bernardino County cities affected for the fine money collected in local courts. Several days later, however, it became known that the League of Municipalities, anticipating an adverse court decision on a statute now on the state books, had introduced two bills in the Legislature rescinding the state law.

Returns to Former Status

These measures were passed in the Legislature but were not signed by Governor Richardson when the time for signing legislative bills expired. As a result the situation reverted to its former status as defined by the Appellate Court ruling.

In view of the new aspect of the case it is believed certain that the county auditor will make demand upon the cities of the fifth and sixth class of the county for payment to the county treasurer of the fines collected in city courts. The city courts are allowed to deduct costs of operation but the balance must be paid to the county.

Redlands to Refuse Demand

More than $500 is collected every month in practically every city court in the county and in some instances runs more than $1,000 monthly. It is anticipated that the affected cities of this county will fight any attempt by the county to collect the fine money. According to word received here, the city attorney of Redlands declares that it is not the intention of that municipality to pay into the county any of the fines accruing from police court proceedings.

Colton may take a similar stand although M. O. Hert, deputy district attorney, who also is city attorney of Colton, told the Board of Trustees that the county is certain to demand the money and that under the court decision there is no escape for the city.

May Go To Higher Court

Colton or Redlands, however, may force the issue into the Supreme Court of the state by refusing to turn the money over to the county. Attorney D. A. Rothrock of Colton is quoted as saying that the Board of Trustees "will be acting wisely to refuse to surrender the funds if they are demanded by the county auditor."

After careful study of the legal aspects of the matter, Rothrock said that he is satisfied it is not the intention of the statutes governing the court actions of cities of the sixth class that they shall be deprived of any of the fees collected. He states that the ruling of the Appellate Court is very apt to meet with reversal if the counties of California decide to carry the matter to the highest bench of the state.

Dr. Ernest James Jaqua, dean of Pomona College, is to deliver the address of the evening and presentation of diplomas is to be by Miss Ida M. Collins, county superintendent of schools. The Rev. W. Earle Smith, pastor of the First Baptist Church, will pronounce the invocation. Consider Paving Plans

Plans and specifications for the curbing and paving of Mountain and Magnolia Avenues for their entire length within the city limits, a distance of approximately four and a half miles from north to south, were adopted by the city council in special session at the City Hall Tuesday.

A resolution of intention to proceed with the work was also adopted. The paving and curbing will be done under the assessment district plan and June 22 was fixed as the date for the hearing of possible protests against the proposed work.

Paving of the two streets which, with a slight jog, form one continuous boulevard, is expected to go a long way toward solving storm drainage problems which for a long time have troubled ranchers and city officials.

Musical Program

With L. J. Klimes, chairman of the music committee, in charge, a particularly pleasing and entertaining musical program featured Friday's luncheon meeting of the Kiwanis Club at Hotel Casa Blanca.

Charles W. Walker, baritone, was heard in a group of solos and there were several selections by an instrumental trio numbering D. C. Stuits, M. F. C. Westphal and Mr. Klimes. Many specials by the club as a whole and singing contests added to the pleasure of the occasion.

The meeting was opened by F. H. Wallihan, club president, who is shortly to leave for St. Paul, Minn., to attend the convention of Kiwanis International.

The meeting was addressed briefly by Mrs. Ernest O. Lee, principal of the Daily Vacation Bible School, which is to be opened here the latter part of the month.

It was announced that the first match of the second leg of the Inter-City Service Club golf tournament will be played Thursday at Red Hill Country Club between golfers of the Kiwanis and Lions Clubs.

90 Days For Slap

Marion Reyes, age 30 years, who was arrested April 17 on a charge of contributing to the delinquency of Lora Casteneda, age 13, and released at his preliminary examination for lack of sufficient evidence to convict, Saturday drew a sentence of 90 days in the county jail at the hands of Judge George R. Holbrook in the police court after his arrest for striking Mrs. Lomita Mendoza in the face at her home, 604 South Campus Avenue.

Reyes pleaded not guilty to the charge of disturbing the peace filed against him, but he was held guilty after hearing of the testimony of witnesses for Mrs. Mendoza, who declared that she had resisted attempts of the man to force unwelcome attentions upon her. G. Mendoza, the woman's son, swore to the complaint for Reyes' arrest.

Joe Ambria, age 30 years, who was arrested in April at the same time as Reyes and charged with a statutory offense against the Casteneda girl, is being held for trial in the superior court following his preliminary hearing.

Peach Crop Will Not Fill Cannery Needs This Year

Indications for a peach crop considerably short of previous expectations, a high quality of fruit and a strong market, were reviewed recently by E. G. Hamilton, manager of the Southern California Prune and Apricot Growers' Association. Mr. Hamilton had just returned from a northern trip, where he was in conference with peach and apricot men of prominence.

In this regard Mr. Hamilton said: "The present crop of canning peaches in Southern California is not sufficient to supply the needs of the southern canners, practically all of whom are planning to pack peaches. This is particularly true of cling peaches in general and the Phillips cling variety in particular. In many of our districts the North Tuscan variety is also a failure and generally this is true in the orchards which suffered on account of the condition which existed last year."

"The tonnage of cling peaches to be produced in Southern California will not, in our judgment, exceed 15,000 tons, and will possibly be more than 12,500 tons, the clings as a whole being less than 60 per cent of what we should have with a normal crop. We believe the quality of this fruit will be better than any previously produced. Growing conditions and the present size of the fruit indicates that it will reach the size requirements to make high-grade canning fruit."

"There are 16 plants of commercial canneries located in Southern California, all of which are planning to pack peaches. There are also the three large plants of the California Cooperative Canneries, which have completed financial and selling arrangements which will insure their handling the large tonnage of their membership. There is also considerable demand for fruit for the fresh markets of Los Angeles and San Diego and other cities."

"Altogether the situation is such that a number of our Southern canners are trying to make arrangements to ship peaches in from the north in an effort to have peaches enough for their requirements. The northern cling crop is large, but it is not the tremendous tonnage that was first reported. Whereas many authorities originally placed the tonnage of the north as high as 240,000 tons, it is now generally conceded that it will not exceed 185,000 tons and many believe this figure too high. The only district which may have cling peaches available for shipment to Southern California is the Sutter Basin country, which is about 500 miles away, rather far for practical purposes. The clings produced in the San Joaquin Valley districts are at the present time well tied up, being needed by the canners of that valley."

SYMPATHY FOR POETS

William Cullen Bryant, while editor of the New York Evening Post, insisted that young poets should be sympathetically noticed in the book column of the paper. Once a book reviewer handed him a thin volume of poems, which he described as absolutely worthless. Bryant looked through the book and shook his head sadly. "Well," he suggested, "you might say that it is well bound and clearly printed." On another occasion Bryant was asked by an ambitious young poet for his candid opinion of a new volume of verse. "Do they convey the idea of poetry at all?" the modest young author inquired. "Yes, they do," Bryant replied. "There is something in every line that conveys the idea. Every line begins with a capital letter."

BIG PLANS FOR ARROWHEAD

David J. Blankenhorn, Los Angeles and Pasadena millionaire, is the leading spirit in the new holding company to be known as the Arrowhead Springs Corporation. He states that more than $100,000 would be spent by the company between now and October 15 for improvement of the property.

Officers are Named

Blankenhorn will be president of the new corporation. Charles G. Anthony, who has been in charge of the Arrowhead Springs Bottling Works, a subsidiary of the resort, will be vice-president and a member of the board of directors. Anthony will continue in charge of the bottling works, for which also there are large expansion plans contemplated.

C. M. Rice, representing the A. M. Marshall interests of Minnesota, will be secretary. A. M. Marshall is a brother of Seth Marshall and has been interested in the management of the resort in the past. J. E. Lannan, an associate of Mr. Blankenhorn's will be assistant secretary and treasurer.

W. G. McAdoo, former secretary of the treasury, associated with the Blankenhorn interests in the purchase, probably will be a member of the board of directors. Blankenhorn said, although McAdoo has not decided yet whether to take any active part in the management.

Will Have Expert Management

Following completion of the improvement program, Blankenhorn said that it is the intention of the new holding corporation to turn the hotel over to "one of the strong hotel operating companies of the country" for operation. This will be done in order that the resort will have the benefit of expert hotel management, in much the same manner as the Pennsylvania Hotel of New York, one of the largest hotels in the world, is operated by the Statler Hotel interests.

The improvement program will begin next Monday. The hotel is to be closed to the public after Sunday, all guests having been notified and future reservations cancelled. The work is expected to be finished by October 15 when the resort again will be opened as one of the garden spots of the nation.

The main improvements to be made during the summer months include the paving of the road from the entrance to the property to the hotel building. Thousands of dollars also will be spent for landscaping the entire 1800 acres comprising the resort property.

Bridle Trail Planned

Bridle trails will be constructed throughout the mountain property and a riding academy and stable, in charge of expert riding masters, will be established. Blooded stock will be kept at the resort.

Several new cottages will be erected on the property and extensive improvements will be made in the facilities for baths at the steam caves, this being one of the features to be stressed in a national advertising campaign which will be conducted prior to the formal re-opening of the hotel in October for the winter season.

The bottling works, located in Los Angeles, also will share in the expansion program. The famous Arrowhead spring water, now shipped to Los Angeles and bottled, will continue to find its main market in California for the present, although later it is planned to enlarge the field of activity to include eastern states.

A new beverage, however, made from the famous water, will be manufactured and placed on sale throughout the country, accompanied by an advertising campaign. The beverage will be a ginger ale to be known as "California Extra Dry."

Purchase Price Revealed

Headquarters of the new syndicate are located in the Pacific Mutual Building in Los Angeles. Blankenhorn said that the new holding corporation had paid Seth Marshall in excess of $1,000,000 for his interest in the resort.

The syndicate and McAdoo interests have purchased the controlling interest held by Seth Marshall, founder of the hotel. It is understood that M. A. Marshall, brother of Seth Marshall, retains his interest. M. A. Marshall is a millionaire of Duluth.

The improvements just completed by Mr. Marshall at a cost of approximately $75,000, have made the hotel one of the finest in the country, the new owners announced. Additional expenditures on the building will not be made at this time, but extensive improvements on the grounds will be started at once. The plan is to create one of the most gorgeous landscape effects in California.

The Arrowhead Hotel was constructed just twenty years ago. Mr. Marshall was the leader of the syndicate that financed this project. During the war and for several years after the hotel was operated by the government as a rehabilitation hospital for service men.

EDITH CAVELL MEMBERS

MEET ON THURSDAY

The final business meeting of members of the Edith Cavell Chapter, D.B.E., before closing for the summer holidays will be held next Thursday, June 11th, at the home of the regent, Mrs. John E. Walker, Euclid Avenue and H Street, Ontario.

The meeting will commence promptly at two-thirty and following the routine of business, a talk by Mrs. Marion White Hasselso on "Incidents in the Life of Queen Victoria" will be given. Those who heard this interesting speaker talk on Dickens a short time ago will be glad of the chance of hearing her again.

bet your own wife will agree with me. My husband isn't dried up, either, and he hasn't a squeaky voice."

I haven't finished that letter yet, for I'm pretty busy most of the week, but about Saturday hope to get an afternoon to finish it. Down here in this office we meet a lot of words, but they don't come in flocks and droves and multitudes—there's just one thing I want to tell you readers of this column, though, there's one thing that girl didn't know about me when we were kids—she never did know how many sweethearts I had.

FESTIVAL AT CHRISTIAN CHURCH ON THURSDAY

An old-fashioned festival with a chicken dinner will be held on Thursday afternoon and evening at the Christian Church, West A Street and Vine Avenue, Ontario, which promises to be a great success. Arrangements for the affair are in charge of W. D. Richardson, which assures a very well-managed affair.

Doors will open at four in the afternoon and there will be something doing every minute of the time until ten p.m. Candy booths and a fish pond are some of the attractions, and there will be a musical program and stunts which nobody will want to miss. Every one come and enjoy the chicken dinner and the festival with old-fashioned revelry.

RUMMAGE SALE SATURDAY BY ST. MARK'S GUILD

Those having contributions towards the rummage sale to be held by members of St. Mark's Guild on Saturday, June 13th, are asked to call Mrs. W. W. Mrs. Phipps asks that those not able to bring their articles themselves will let her know not later than Friday noon.

A SMILE OR TWO

Prince Metternich once requested an autograph of Alexandre Dumas. The novelist wrote in his best round hand: "Received from Prince Metternich twenty-five bottles of his oldest Johannisberg, Alexandre Dumas." Metternich sent the wine.

In a Maine town not long ago the champion local liar was brought before the justice of the peace for stealing a hen. It was a pretty plain case, and, on the advice of his lawyer, the prisoner decided not to argue about it. "plead guilty, Judge," he said. The justice was staggered; he had been prepared for a long and involved chain of lies. "Hiram," he said, after a moment, "I guess I'll have to have more evidence before I sentence you."

Charles Dickens once received an invitation to a "Walter Scott" party, and was asked to dress in the character of some one of Scott's heroes. Dickens appeared at the gathering in simple evening clothes. The host, rather affronted, asked the writer which one of Scott's characters he represented. "Why," said Dickens, "I am a character you will find in every one of Scott's novels. I am the 'gentle reader'."

The visiting lawyer advanced a proposition that obviously was very doubtful law. The hometown judge eyed him narrowly. "Mr. Smith," he said, "do you think that is law?" "No," said the lawyer, gracefully, "candor compels me to admit that I do not, but I did not know how it would strike your honor." The judge deliberated a few moments, then gravely said: "That may not be contempt of court, but it is a mighty close shave."
